

Managing the Mix: Maximizing a Multi-Generational Workplace

Today's business environment may be the first to include five different generations working side by side within one team. Each generation has a different set of workplace expectations, behaviors, and desire – a lack of awareness about these differences is a major factor leading to friction and animosity in the workplace.

In our workshop, Managing the Mix: Maximizing a Multi-Generational Workplace, our goal is to understand what shaped each generation, to see past any unconscious bias we may have, to collaborate and work effectively with all generations.

Learning Objectives

- Understand the five generations and what shaped their expectations and behaviors
- Identify the value each generation brings to the workplace
- Discover how to work best together moving forward